Redefine your communication:

Obtaining success through your words

What to Expect

Purpose
This program was created to teach entrepreneurs the art of communicating with others effectively

Process
Colleen will teach participants a series of proven interpersonal communication techniques based on her own experience as a business owner.
Participants will refine their skills by:

- Discovering how they communicate internally and how to relay that confidence to others
- Understand what message their body language is sending and how to use it
- Find ways to overcome the most difficult communication gaps
- Discover the influence that is possible through their effective communication

Powerful Impact
All who attend Colleen's presentation will leave with essential tools that will transform the way they relate to others around them. They will understand how to truly listen to what others are saying (or not saying) and how they can meet the demands of their environment.

About the Speaker

Colleen J. Payne went from being one out of eight children in a small town of Oklahoma to a nationally recognized entrepreneur and distinguished public speaker.
